Wireshark Automation Bot

Project Execution Proof

Prepared by: Lavanya BM
Repository: github.com/LavanyaAIML/wireshark_bot

This document provides verifiable screenshots of the tool running end-to-end — command execution and the resulting generated report — as supporting evidence for the project described in the repository README.

1. Tool Execution — Kali Linux Terminal

The bot is run from the command line against a real PCAP file (2014-11-16-traffic-analysis-exercise.pcap, 3,053 packets). The CLI confirms successful analysis and writes both an HTML and a JSON report to the reports/ directory, which is then opened directly in the browser.

2. Generated Report — Wireshark Automation Report

Wireshark automation report

Generated: 20260610_112210 | File: /media/sf_share_folder_for_VMS/2014-11-16-traffic-analysis-exercise.pcap

Summary

3053	819.7	1514	0
Total packets	Avg size (bytes)	Max size (bytes)	Alerts fired

Top protocols

Protocol	Packets
TCP	2500
TLS	373
HTTP	41
NBNS	24
DNS	22
ARP	19
DATA-TEXT-LINES	15
LLMNR	12
DHCPV6	11
IMAGE-GIF	9

Top source IPs

IP	Packets sent
37.200.69.143	1112
172.16.165.165	848
74.125.233.96	382
204.79.197.200	308
82.150.140.30	260
188.225.73.100	62
74.125.233.100	14
172.16.165.2	11
185.53.178.9	9
131.253.61.84	4

Top destination ports

Port	Packets
80	611
49452	388
49451	380
49456	308
49446	262
443	189
49433	146
49432	146
49439	100
49447	60

Top conversations

Flow	Packets
37.200.69.143 -> 172.16.165.165	1112
172.16.165.165 -> 37.200.69.143	419
74.125.233.96 -> 172.16.165.165	382
204.79.197.200 -> 172.16.165.165	308
82.150.140.30 -> 172.16.165.165	260
172.16.165.165 -> 74.125.233.96	173
172.16.165.165 -> 82.150.140.30	140
188.225.73.100 -> 172.16.165.165	62
172.16.165.165 -> 188.225.73.100	33
172.16.165.165 -> 172.16.165.2	32

The auto-generated HTML report produced by the run above. It summarizes total packets, average/max packet size, protocol distribution, top source IPs, top destination ports, and top conversation flows — all extracted and rendered without manual Wireshark analysis.